

SOUTH AFRICA

GUMBOOT DANCE

In southern Africa we find a modern choreography, called boots of waste or gumboot dance.

The men wear water boots and hit the ground with them.

It derives from the era of racial segregation. Workers were forbidden to speak in the mines, so they communicated through sounds made with these shoes.

