

Intercultural competency with Holguer

On November 8th, the different English groups had a special class with a German speaker, Holguer, a workshop about intercultural competency.

He talked, in English, about the differences in perception according to our different cultures.

He explained how through the senses (visual, auditory) associated with an emotion, the brain processes and interprets something according to our cultural education.

We practised the different greetings according to different countries and together, with an English teacher of our school, represented a very enlightening role playing. Finally, he talked about the interpretation of the brain with a very graphic example.

It was a very fun and participatory class.

By Elodia Martín

