2020 CHRISTMAS

Christmas is the time of love and gratitude that many of us enjoy, either by reuniting with our loved ones or by the holidays and the Christmas atmosphere. During this time, essential values are discussed, such as transmitting our feelings and good wishes to others. But as we noticed in those recent times, the situation is no longer the same, and many of us would like to enjoy it traditionally, but we have to learn to adapt to these circumstances, however difficult they may be. And it is that, Christmas is a time in which some values become important and where the family gathers to celebrate our ties. But this year, many of us have learned what has been the sense of personal and mutual responsibility. Many of us want to get together as a family, and for sadly that this could sound, we will have to limit ourselves to celebrating Christmas with those at home if we want to protect our loved ones. It will be hard, but precautions should be reinforced to be able to end this as soon as possible and be able to return to normality, so that next year, celebrate a full Christmas with family and friends, and don't go through this situation again, that for someones is painful.
