

CAR WINDOW

Dear followers, what a day! Today I have probably experienced the most embarrassing moment of my whole life! First of all, let me put you in context. As you might have noticed, today it's been a windy day, so I tied up my hair to do some shopping around the city.

I had been going up and down all morning, and at twoish I decided to go back home. When I had almost arrived, I stopped in front of the dark window of a car to see how my hair was doing. I was suffering, because the heavy wind had made me pull my hair too much, and I couldn't tie it properly.

Suddenly, the car window started to go down slowly, making the typical noise of a humor film. I had been staring all that time at the boy I used to like! He smiled at me and started laughing, but all I could do was turn red like a tomato and wish I had never existed.

I didn't know what to say or do, and my legs decided to run away. I couldn't help feeling dumb and stupid, even though I thought he looked so damn handsome. If it hadn't been so windy, this wouldn't have happened! I swear to God I've never run like I did this morning. For what's worth, he has texted me! Well, it's already been said; born between Blanes and Cadaqués, hit by the Tramuntana!

From: Duna García Lledó