

My day routine starts at 7:30 a.m because it's so difficult for me to wake up with my mobile alarm, because I go to sleep so late and I dont have so much time in the night to fall asleep. The first think I do when I wake up is stay in my bed for 10 min approx. In this 10 minutes always I think in my problems and thinks like that, after my mental-broke I get up and I go to the bathroom, because I need make the wodoo (wodoo its like a little shower, but its not a shower), then I go pray and then I have breakfast while looking at my mobile. After that I brush my teeth and I get dress. Then I leave home and I go to school with my friends.

I think that I've a great personality because I am very nice to everyone and I like to help people. My friends say that I am funny and a great person.

As for my personality, I consider myself as a shy but sociable person. I mean, the first time I meet someone I am not the one who starts a conversation but once the ice is broken I'm very sociable and friendly. Apart from that, my friends say that I have my feet firmly on the ground, that is, I'm a realistic person and I know what my limits are.

My name is Farah and I am 15 years old. I am tall and of medium weight. I have a round brown-skin face with acne. Hazelnut and very dark brown eyes. I have a large nose and a deviated septum, I also have very thin lips. I wear a hijab, I usually wear it in black since it is the color I like the most. I like my physique, although I do not follow the beauty standards of society, I consider that my features give me personality and differentiate me from others.

GET WELL

Hello my name is Farah and I'm going to talk about memories.

I was born in Reus on 26/08/2005. I remember I had bronchitis and was admitted for 2 weeks. My first memory is that I had to go to Morocco when I was 3 months old because my grandfather was ill and my mother was anxious to visit my grandfather.

My happiest memory is when my little sister was born, on 08/01/2020.

My childhood was funny because I spent it with my cousins, I was problematic, because I was always fighting with my sisters and smart because I always got good grades.

I visited Morocco every summer and I went to France and Germany when I was 9 years old. I was always playing hide and seek with my friends and my cousins. My first best friend was Ramon, now Ramon is living in Suiza, but I am still talking with him.

My father was so funny and he always was playing with me, but my mother for other part was super protective and she stills being super protective.

I had a big house where we lived for 1 year, but now I still live in the house we bought 14 years ago. I like my house but if I could change something, it would be the bedrooms because I share it with my older sister.

In the future I would like to do a BA in A.D or English Philology as that is the only thing I am good at. If I find a man who is worthwhile, I would like to spend the rest of my life with him, but if not, I prefer to stay alone. One of my goals is to travel to all the countries of the world, since I love to travel. I would also like to have children, but it scares me, so I will surely end up adopting. One of my biggest dreams is to move to an English-speaking country, but people say that are so depressive countries so I don't know. My parents wanted to go to live in Germany, since everything would have been easier for me but my siblings didn't want to.
