

Now we know that life is spending time eating with a friend on a terrace, going for a walk, sunbathing, watching a movie in a cinema, getting lost on an unknown street, taking a train... Therefore, when life goes back to normal, we will ask you less things. And now I remember going to celebrations, parties, bus trips, travelling by plane, by subway...

Nostalgia of buying at shops and markets of Spain...my great country, my poor tortured and humiliated country. When this ends, I think we will never give a "protocol" kiss again. All kisses will become powerful, strong, long, sexy and wild kisses.
